

ABOUT

As a full-scholarship participant in the KL-YES Program during my senior year of high school, I gained an international perspective and advanced English proficiency through this global experience.

Currently, I am a third-year Management Information Systems (German) student at Marmara University. I am particularly interested in sales, operations, marketing, business processes, ERP systems, and the role of technology in improving organizational efficiency.

My goal is to develop a strong understanding of how businesses operate by combining business knowledge with information systems and data-driven decision-making. I am eager to continue strengthening both my analytical and technical competencies through practical experience.
